

SPEAKING OF

The World

"Were I to choose the greatest newspaper in America to-day, my vote would go to The New York World."

"In this choice I should not be influenced by the liberal views of that paper, although I share most of them; nor by its unblemished post-war record, unique among our powerful dailies; nor by the fearless manner in which it has time and again exposed wrongs and wrongdoers, such as the profiteering landlords, the patrioteers, the Ku Klux Klan, the Rosenbluth case, &c., &c. I should make this award primarily for one reason: The World's marvelous editorial staff—an all-star team of writers, wits, and artists such as has rarely been assembled under the aegis of a single paper."

"Does this sound exaggerated? Let us see. What other paper can boast of a masterful managing editor like Herbert Bayard Swope? an editorial writer like Frank I. Cobb? an artist like Gene Carr, the poet of the city's street children, whose drawings are rare blends of humor, pathos and delicate irony? a reporter and Rabelaisian wag like Joseph van Ralite, whose recent dissertation on a chocolate éclair might have been written by Charles Lamb himself? a profound student of politics and psychology like Walter Lippmann? a music critic and wit like Deems Taylor? a reviewer of books and plays, writer on sports and exquisite humorist rolled into one like Heywood Brown, the best loved man of letters in America to-day? an F. P. A., the king of 'columnists'?"

"This does not exhaust the regular staff, nor does it take into account such distinguished special contributors as Francis Hackett, Charles Merz, Clare Sheridan and others; but enough has been given, I believe, to justify the choice."—Maximilian Hurwitz in the JEWISH TRIBUNE.

J. P. MORGAN BACK; FEW RESULTS GAINED

'Nothing Tangible' Was Accomplished in Travels Abroad Since May.

NOT ILL IN LONDON

'Never Better' Than at the Time Reports of Sickness Were Cabled.

M'SWINEY PRIEST HERE

Father Dominic, Warned to Silence, Cries 'I'm Disciplined Like a Child'

J. P. Morgan, who has been in Europe since last May attending financial conferences and taking his first long vacation in many years, returned last night in fine physical shape and good humor by the White Star liner Adriatic. Mrs. Morgan was with him; he said he was sorry to disappoint the photographers who went down the boat, but that his rule was never to pose for the camera. Mr. Morgan denied the rumor cabled here of his illness in London. He said he never felt better in his life when the report was published on this side of the sea.

While he would say little concerning his financial activities in Europe he gave the impression that "nothing had been accomplished that might be construed as tangible" in the various negotiations. Fellow voyagers of the financier said that while he was in Rome he noted the swift and effective methods of the Fascist and said he was much impressed by them. In Scotland Mr. Morgan indulged in some satisfactory shooting. He remarked to all who met him that he was mighty glad to get back. He was accompanied by his private secretary, John Arden, and his family. Mr. Morgan's two sons greeted their parents aboard ship when the liner docked, John R. Drexel, head of the Morgan-Drexel house in Paris, was also a passenger, with Mrs. Drexel.

Lloyd George Expected.

Karl August Bickel, general manager of the United Press in London, brought the first of a series of thirty articles that Lloyd George is writing for the United Press. Mr. Bickel said: "All statesmen and politicians in Britain look for the return of Lloyd George to power within a year and the general belief is that the Labor party will dominate England." Mr. Lloyd George may be here in May, but he will not come on a paid lecture tour. He will spend his vacation in southern Europe. Father Dominic, otherwise the Rev. John P. O'Connor, spiritual adviser of Terence McSwiney during his hunger strike, arrived in the second cabin of the Adriatic on his way to the house near Portland, Ore., of the Franciscan Capuchin order of which he is a member. He is being disciplined for his activity against the Free State Government of Ireland. He is accompanied by the Rev. Joseph Penick, head of the same order in America, who cautioned him not to talk. He said that he is a friend of De Valera and declared that the latter is still in Ireland and that he might come to America on a special mission.

While talking with a reporter Father Dominic suddenly burst out with, "I don't see why I should be disciplined like a child." After a moment he said with some bitterness of tone: "They killed Childers because he was found with a gun, but it was not stated at the court martial that this very gun was a gift to him by Michael Collins, leader of the Free State."

Expelled From Ireland.

The Misses Mary and Nora Moloney, members of the anti-Free State organization, Daughters of the Republic, also were second cabin passengers. They said they had been expelled from their country for their activity in behalf of the Republicans and that they had come to America to visit relatives and friends. Alexander S. Wilson of Wilson Bros. wool manufacturers of Alva, Scotland, arrived to promote exports to the United States. He said that Germany had seriously restricted the importation of wool and that the best outlet for the Scottish manufacturers was America. The high tariff here, Mr. Wilson declared, would not detrimentally affect the output of Scottish wool for this country.

YOUTHS WRECK MOTOR JUST TAKEN BY THEM

Two Uninjured When Car Is Upset at Corner.

Frank Lengaro of 425 East 222d street left his touring car in front of the Moose Club, at 216th street and Willet avenue, The Bronx, early last night, and when he returned later to start for home the machine was gone. Shortly afterward the police arrested Michael Centrella, 15, of 361 Holland avenue, and Donald Capetta, 14, of 712 East 214th street, and also found the car, which had been wrecked.

The boys told the police they had started the machine with a key they found in the street and had driven only a few blocks when they overturned it in rounding a corner. They boys were not injured. They were taken to the Wakefield station by Patrolman Van Halle, charged with juveniles delinquency.

MEXICAN BANDITS KILL 2 AMERICAN WORKERS

Another Wounded and Escapes After Ambush Attack.

Mexico City, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—Two unidentified persons were killed Friday from ambush by bandits, who attacked a party of employees of the Aguila Oil Company, between Ixcatlan and Puerto Mexico, Vera Cruz. Another American is said to have been wounded, but made his escape. One Mexican was killed. H. K. Werker, superintendent of the Aguila camp at Tlacotal, Vera Cruz, was kidnapped Thursday, and is being held for 10,000 pesos ransom. It is said that Werker is a British subject. The American Embassy here has been informed of the killing of the two Americans.

FIVE BRIDES-TO-BE SLIP IN HERE IMMIGRANT BAR FALLS

Italian Fiancees Admitted Through Preference Rule Backed by Eloquence of Future Husbands—Officials Order 386 Other New Arrivals Deported.

The gates of the United States slammed yesterday against immigrants from Italy, and will not be opened again until next July, but five girls who had come to this country to marry managed to squeeze in at the last moment. They got in under that part of the immigrant restriction law which says that preference shall be given to the wives, parents, brothers, sisters and fiancées of citizens, of aliens who have applied for papers and of persons eligible to citizenship who served in the military or naval forces during the war.

The girls gave their names as Angela Simonassi, Maria Gianetti, Oneglia Socacaglio, Rosa Desimone and Teresa Benedetti. They came from different parts of Italy on three ships that have been racing to get their passengers here before the Italian quota was exhausted. The authorities decided that 386 must be deported, but the prospective bridegrooms argued their cause with such forcefulness and effect that the five girls were admitted.

NEW CLEWS FOUND IN SLAYING OF GIRL

Five Men Questioned and One Will Be Kept Under Surveillance.

A. C. Hart, prosecutor of Bergen county, directing the investigation into the murder of Miss Christine Herlihy, 17, whose body was found Friday morning near a greenhouse at Wallington, N. J., said last night that he had found several important clues and that detectives were watching one man whose connection with the case is believed to be of the greatest importance.

Detectives questioned John Orlewsky, 18, of 25 James street, Wallington, for two hours yesterday and then released him when they were convinced that he knew nothing of how the girl came to her death. He was brought into the investigation when he gave the Herlihy girl's key, which he said he had picked up from a roadway near by, to a patrolman. Orlewsky had scratches on his face and hands, but he said he got them while playing with a cat. Four other men were questioned, but at least two of them were found to know nothing of importance in connection with the murder. One man who was picked up because his face was scratched was released when he convinced the detectives that he was scratched by his wife. The man who is under surveillance is said to be in East Rutherford. A corporal of the State constabulary has been near the greenhouse where the girl was killed, but Prosecutor Hart denied that the State troopers had been brought into the case. The girl's funeral was held yesterday from an undertaking establishment in Wallington and was attended by 100 persons, among them the members of the Sunday school class to which she belonged.

Lisbon, Dec. 3.—The new Portuguese Government, after three days in office, resigned following the election of a member of the opposition as President of Parliament. The President will not accept the resignation until he has conferred with the political leaders in Parliament.

GENERAL ELECTRIC VOTES PRIZE FUND

$400,000 Charles H. Coffin Foundation to Honor Retired President.

The General Electric Company announced yesterday that its board of directors has set aside a fund of $400,000 to be known as the Charles H. Coffin Foundation, the income from which, amounting to approximately $20,000 a year, will be available for encouraging and rewarding service in the electrical field by giving prizes to its employees, recognition to lighting, power and railway companies for improvement in service and fellowships to graduate students and funds for research work at technical schools and colleges.

Mr. Coffin retired from the active leadership of the General Electric Company on May 15 and the creation of the foundation, so it is explained by Gerard Swope, the company's present president, is designed as an enduring appreciation of his life work.

A gold medal, to be known as the Charles H. Coffin Medal, will be awarded annually to the public utility operating company which, during the year, has made the greatest contribution toward increasing the advantages of the use of electric light and power. The company receiving the medal also will receive $1,000 for its employees' benefit or similar fund.

The committee administering the foundation will make a similar award to the electric railway company which each year makes the greatest contribution toward increasing the advantages of electric transportation. There will be an annual distribution of $11,000 in prizes for the most significant contributions by employees of the General Electric Company toward the increase of its efficiency or progress in the electrical art. The prizes are particularly designed to further encourage suggestions from workmen.

There also is to be a $5,000 award annually for fellowships to graduates of American colleges and technical schools, who, upon recommendation of their respective faculties, have made such records as to warrant a continuation of research work, either here or abroad. Fellowships are to be awarded in the fields of electricity, physics and physical chemistry.

BROKERS TO FIGHT SHIFTING OF DEBT

Clark, Childs & Co. Deny Responsibility for Chandler Bros. & Co., Bankrupts.

That the decision of Justice Benedict, in the Supreme Court, finding Dr. John A. Kilmore of Mechanicsburg, Pa., entitled to recover from Clark, Childs & Co., stock brokers, $800 which he says he lost through the bankruptcy of Chandler Bros. & Co. will not stand and does not constitute a precedent for responsibility for other Chandler Bros. & Co. accounts is the view of the firm. This is set forth in a statement issued yesterday by J. F. A. Clark of the firm and its lawyers, Louis Marshall and Joseph M. Proskauer. It reviewed the relationship of Clark, Childs & Co. to Chandler Bros. & Co. during the period of the events alleged in the Kilmore action, as follows:

"A number of large creditors of that firm (Chandler Bros. & Co.) undertook in May, 1921, to reorganize it and place it on a sound financial basis. To that end they agreed to postpone or forgive their own claims amounting to about $2,000,000, and also with the partners of the firm to contribute new capital in cash security aggregating about $1,000,000.

"They requested us to give the benefit of our advice as an experienced and conservative brokerage firm in improving the business methods of Chandler Bros. & Co. and effecting an economical administration of its affairs.

"With the sincere intention of saving this firm and its creditors from loss we acceded to this request, and for a period of not over ten weeks attempted to render such service. Before the expiration of that period we notified all concerned that our efforts could not succeed. We never profited one penny from these transactions, as we had for years been wire correspondents for Chandler Bros. & Co., receiving the regular commissions for our work as brokers.

"Because of this endeavor on our part to save the firm and its creditors from loss it is now charged that we became responsible in some way for the act of Chandler Bros. & Co., which we could not control and in which we had no part.

"The long and honorable record of our firm and the consistent and wholehearted

Flying Base Personnel Off in Airship for Miami

FOR the first time in American aviation the personnel of a flying base is being transported by air to Miami. The new aeromarine eleven passenger flying cruiser Gov. Cordellaux left Keyport, N. J., at 7:10 yesterday morning to enter the Miami-Nassau air service. In addition to the pilots, the boat carried a radio operator, a bowman, a passenger traffic manager, two stenographers, four mechanics, two ticket agents, a motor boat man and a cook.

moral report we have received prompt as to assert our confident belief that our conduct was both legal and praiseworthy and to give assurance that despite this temporary and unfortunate defeat our ultimate success in this litigation is assured."

BRUSH FIRE MENACE STIRS STATEN ISLAND

Appeal Will Be Made to Police Commissioner.

Brush fires in Staten Island towns have become so numerous that citizens have decided to appeal to Commissioner Enright to have the police enforce the ordinance requiring that such fires shall not be kindled without a permit. Three unoccupied dwelling houses at 101, 103 and 105 Oakwood avenue, Oakwood, caught fire from a burning heap of brush yesterday and were destroyed. They were owned by Frank Ollivier. In November six houses in that vicinity were destroyed by fires originating from similar sources.

The fires usually are started by boys, and during the last month there have been about twelve a day on an average.

LEAPS OFF BRIDGE TO DEATH.

John D. Elbert, 36, a laborer, who formerly lived at 300 West 116th street, killed himself yesterday by jumping off the Queensboro Bridge near the pier of Blackwells Island. Records at Bellevue Hospital show that Elbert came there last August 25 suffering from hysteria. He remained there under treatment until September 2, when he was discharged.

JAMES MCCREERY & CO.
A Practical Christmas Gift
Locomotive Electric Washing Machines 89.50
Extremely Low Priced
She will not dread the arrival of the laundry day, next year, if you give her a Locomotive Washing Machine this Christmas. Its water heating device which makes it possible to wash, boil and sterilize the laundry without the use of a stove or extra boiler, removes all the back-breaking element from wash day. A solid copper boiler always keeps the interior free from rust. A sturdy wringer completes the operation, and leaves her free to attend to her other duties. An additional advantage of the "Locomotive" is the table board top for ironing.
This new shipment has been received just in time to make this Christmas offer.
